Tiger Woods and Phil Mickelson are two of the greatest golfers of all time. Their rivalry has been one of the most intense and captivating in the sport's history. The two players have been battling each other on the golf course for over two decades, and their rivalry has produced some of the most memorable moments in golf history.

The Early Years

Tiger Woods and Phil Mickelson first met as teenagers at a junior golf tournament. They quickly became friends and rivals, and their rivalry has continued to grow over the years. The two players have been battling each other for major championships, PGA Tour victories, and world rankings for over two decades.

The Rivalry Heats Up

The rivalry between Tiger Woods and Phil Mickelson reached a new level in the early 2000s. Woods was at the peak of his powers, and he was winning major championships at a record pace. Mickelson was also playing well, but he was often overshadowed by Woods. In 2004, Mickelson finally broke through and won his first major championship, the Masters Tournament. This victory gave Mickelson the confidence to challenge Woods more directly, and the rivalry between the two players became even more intense.

The Duel at Doral

One of the most memorable moments in the rivalry between Tiger Woods and Phil Mickelson came at the 2005 Ford Championship at Doral. The two players were tied for the lead going into the final round, and they played a thrilling match that came down to the final hole. Woods eventually won the tournament by one stroke, but Mickelson's performance showed that he was capable of beating Woods at his own game.

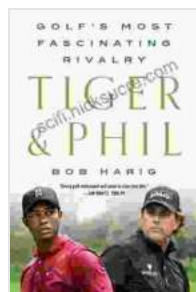

The Ryder Cup

The rivalry between Tiger Woods and Phil Mickelson has also been played out on the international stage. The two players have been teammates on the United States Ryder Cup team on several occasions, and they have often been paired together in matches. In 2018, Woods and Mickelson were part of the United States team that defeated Europe at Le Golf National in France. It was a special moment for the two players, and it showed that their rivalry could be put aside for the sake of the team.

The Legacy

The rivalry between Tiger Woods and Phil Mickelson is one of the most iconic in the history of golf. The two players have been battling each other for over two decades, and they have produced some of the most memorable moments in the sport's history. Their rivalry has helped to make golf more popular and exciting, and it has inspired a generation of young golfers.
