Togetherness: A New Heritage Deal for Europe is a long-term strategy to protect and promote Europe's cultural heritage. It was launched in 2018 by the European Commission and is based on the idea that cultural heritage is a shared resource that can contribute to social cohesion, economic growth, and environmental sustainability.

Togetherness includes a number of initiatives, including the creation of a European Heritage Label, the development of a European Heritage Network, and the establishment of a European Heritage Fund. The European Heritage Label is a new quality label that will be awarded to sites that have a significant European cultural value. The European Heritage Network will bring together cultural heritage institutions from across Europe to share best practices and collaborate on projects. The European Heritage Fund will provide financial support for the protection and promotion of Europe's cultural heritage.

Togetherness is a significant step forward in the protection and promotion of Europe's cultural heritage. It will help to raise awareness of the importance of cultural heritage, provide financial support for its protection, and encourage collaboration between cultural heritage institutions.

Togetherness is a key part of the EU's commitment to building a more inclusive and sustainable Europe.

The Importance of Cultural Heritage

Cultural heritage is a vital part of our lives. It shapes our identities, connects us to our past, and inspires us to create a better future.

Cultural heritage can take many forms, from historic buildings and monuments to traditional crafts and languages. It can be found in our museums and libraries, our churches and temples, and our homes and communities.

Cultural heritage is not just about the past. It is also about the present and the future. It can help us to understand the challenges we face today and to find solutions for them. It can also inspire us to create a more sustainable and just world.

The Challenges Facing Cultural Heritage

Cultural heritage is facing a number of challenges today.

- Climate change is threatening many of our cultural heritage sites, from coastal erosion to flooding.

- Tourism can also damage cultural heritage sites, if it is not managed sustainably.
- War and conflict can also destroy cultural heritage.
- The digital age is also posing new challenges to cultural heritage. For example, it is making it easier for people to access and share cultural heritage, but it is also making it easier for people to manipulate and exploit it.

These are just some of the challenges facing cultural heritage today. It is important to be aware of these challenges so that we can take steps to protect and preserve our cultural heritage.

The Togetherness Initiative

The Togetherness initiative is a response to the challenges facing cultural heritage. It is a long-term strategy to protect and promote Europe's cultural heritage.

The Togetherness initiative includes a number of initiatives, including the creation of a European Heritage Label, the development of a European Heritage Network, and the establishment of a European Heritage Fund.
